Addressing F.U.D in Aegeus

F.U.D is often referred to as Fear, Uncertainty or Doubt and does not just emerge on the financial markets but we see it in the Cryptocurrency world also. F.U.D doesn't just come alive when markets are bad, it's very much alive too when markets are climbing or peaking. Let's say you purchase $1000 worth of Bitcoin last week and this week it's worth $850, there is a tendency to assume that this loss will continue to spiral and that you are yet another victim of the crypto market. Let's say this week it's worth $1200, there is a sense of pride in your decision making and you reservedly wait on further price hikes.

Nobody knows what way the market is going to go at any stage regardless of the amount of analysis conducted. Now saying that, there are large crypto influencers which can sway the market in one direction or another, if in the know and you can somewhat predict an upward spiral, then you are at ease knowing that your purchase or investment is solid and time is on your side so to speak. There are however, certain things you can look out for that may put your mind at ease and reduce your risk of loss. These factors will be discussed below and should be considered when purchasing Aegeus Coin (AEG).

Seasoned crypto-traders know that the best time to purchase a coin is when the price tanks to the floor. This will allow them to reduce their risk more effectively and profit sooner with any increase of the coin price. Purchasing at a higher price-point does increase this risk somewhat. Needless to say F.U.D can be present in any coin, at any time and at any life-stage of that coin. Even experts get it wrong but we want to provide our network users and coin purchaser's helpful information so that they can comfortably relax and reduce the mental and financial risks associated with crypto-trading.

Crypto F.U.D is mainly another's opinion based on information they have either observed personally or heard through a grapevine of some sorts. It does not always mean it's accurate. F.U.D must be taken with a pinch of salt and here is a list of ways you can lessen the effect F.U.D has, on your Aegeus purchases. As excited as you may be about Aegeus, you'll still want to only purchase an amount of AEG knowing that you could lose some or all of it. Every purchase of AEG should be done with the foundational understanding that 'I may not get this Bitcoin or FIAT cash back if I purchase AEG'. Starting with this philosophy will significantly lessen your risk and mental turmoil. Take these into consideration:

- Knowledge is critical to becoming successful. Being able to distinguish between the false stories and true stories can have a direct impact if you will make a healthy profit or a loss. We advise all our users to plug into our communication channels to ensure that any of the information they come across is straight from the horse's mouth and accurate on all fronts.

- If you've purchased AEG and it goes into a slight decline or a solid decline, keep your calm and do not sell in a rush. Oftentimes patience is the key to doing well in this space. It's always very likely that after a downward spike or even a crash that the coin will retrace and climb back up again. Always be patient and never make a rash decision.
- Reduce the clutter! Instead of listening to everybody and anybody about what is going to happen to the coins performance, try and limit it down to two or so experienced crypto traders. If you cannot do this, then don't go asking anonymous people for their advice as this could end up being counter-productive. Keep your eyes in front of you and your ears to the ground and ensure your information is correct at all times.
- Get educated! If you are uncertain about certain trading activities or movements within the crypto-space, do some of your own research. For example you could read the following article 'From Knob To whale in 3 Mins', this article contains a lot of information about some of the most popular influential factors that can sway coin prices one way or another.

We want all our Aegeus users to enjoy their experience with us and do not want people to lose their cool if and when the markets change. Change can favour you one time or another time so keep solid, calm and always maintain things in perspective. The patient man can have everything he wants. Just because a price can go down today does not mean it won't go up again in a few days. Engaging with a serious cryptocurrency who has a dedicated team, vision, purpose, operating community structures in place and realistic roadmaps. These are usually much safer coins to be engaged with, whether you are a newbie or experienced crypto-trader.

- Users that are attempting to engage in FUD discussion types will be advised to take their concerns and discussions over to a more private chat setting where they can be dealt with accordingly. Our moderated rooms will assist where issues can be directly addressed by a member of the Aegeus development, marketing or operations team.
- All discussions within this room are met with understanding and an open mind and are solutions orientated rather than problem focused.
- Discussions or behaviour that cannot be resolved by room moderators invoke the involvement of a direct member of the Aegeus core development team. If the matter is not resolved at this stage the user is removed from the platform as Aegeus will seek to resolve FUD through a more than reasonable approach strategy.
